They are classified as.

- Hardness & friability.
- Weight variation.
- Content uniformity.
- Disintegration. ~~force.~~

Hardness

Tablet requires some hardness to overcome resistance mechanical shocks during manufacturing and shipping.

Hardness of tablets can be tested by pressing the tablet b/w 2nd & 3rd finger and using thumb as a fulcrum.

The hardness is defined by the force required to break the tablet. It can be done by pressing the tablet b/w two anvils. and the ~~breaking~~

small scale

In small scale it is prepared by blending the drug with appropriate adjuvants and drying it and sieving it. then by addition of suitable liquid agglomerates are formed they are compressed

In this method the drugs and active ingredients are triturated and blended along with adjuvants. Then they are ~~pressed~~ compressed and then are sieved through suitable mesh and particle size is adjusted so that it can pass through #20 and then they are again compressed by the addition of suitable lubricants.

Large scale.

In large scale preparation the ~~drug~~ active ingredients along with the drugs are triturated and are blended with adjuvants and are passed through roller compaction which would force our way towards each other under the influence of electric current and resulting in the formation of uniform size aggregates which is again sieved and sieved and which are compressed into tablets by addition of suitable lubricants.

Granulation techniques are of two types

- Dry granulation
- Wet granulation.

Dry granulation

The active ingredients in dry granulation techniques should possess cohesiveness. In this method moisture is not used.

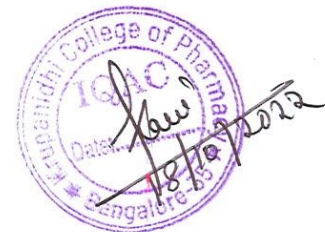

They are of two types.

- Direct compression.
- Route compression / slugging.

Direct compression.

Direct compression is a simple technique in which

Parenterals

↳ Medical class medication.

Q. Vehicles used in parenterals?

Ans. The vehicles used should be inert, non toxic and compatible with blood, maintain solubility of the drug.

- Be physically and chemically stable.
- Does not affect the pH.
- Must be pyrogen free.
- No particulate matter.
- The finished product must meet sterility standard.
- Water is the ideal vehicle for most injections since aqueous preparations are well tolerated by the body.
- Easy visual inspection for particulate contamination, chemical precipitation and colour change.
- It may accelerate drug hydrolysis resulting in inert or toxic products.
- Solvents and vehicles must meet special purity and other standards to measure sterility, stability and safety.
